

Brain coral. Photo by Martin Moe

Healthy Reefs Healthy Fish Healthy Hobby

The hobby of keeping marine life in home aquariums teaches us many things. It gives us insight into the beauty and incredible biological diversity of the coral reef environment. It teaches us about the fragility and complexity of life in the sea, and above all, it inspires our respect and admiration and creates a desire to protect and preserve these wellsprings of aquatic life.

But how can we be part of the solution to the problems that beset our coral reefs and not contribute to the immense problems that face these fragile environments? The Marine Aquarium Council has taken on this daunting task and deserves our support and encouragement. The future of our hobby depends on it.

—Martin Moe

(808) 550-8217

info@aquariumcouncil.org

www.aquariumcouncil.org